TRUE CONVICTION RETURNS FOR AN ALL NEW SEASON TO INVESTIGATION DISCOVERY

Third season premieres, with a special sneak peek, on Wednesday, December 30

Renowned Brooklyn homicide prosecutor Anna-Sigga Nicolazzi is back for a third season of Investigation Discovery's hit series, TRUE CONVICTION. In ten brand new episodes, the series explores the real-life stories of how homicides are solved on the street but won in the courtroom. With more than two decades of experience in the judicial system, no one knows the delicate dance between arrest and conviction better than Nicolazzi. Viewers are invited to join her as she travels across the country to reveal how the nation's top prosecutors tackled their toughest cases. Reliving the crime with the detectives who were on the scene and connecting with those who were left behind, Nicolazzi shows the many paths of justice from crime to verdict.

SPECIAL SNEAK PEAK Wednesday, December 30 @ 11/10c

Shattered Home

Investigators find it suspicious when an unknown assailant shoots a 32-year-old mother in her bedroom while her husband, just a few feet away, survives without a scratch. Rumors swirl around town and an inter-familial lawsuit provides ample motive, but the simplest solution isn't always the right one. Forensic evidence and a surprising eyewitness proves even small grudges can be deadly.

More Than A Statistic

A crime wave is sweeping Boston and police resources are stretched thin. The murder of a single mother is on the brink of becoming just another number in a wave of unsolved homicides. As the case goes cold for years, a toddler is left without his mom and an immigrant family faces an overwhelming justice system they can barely comprehend. Then, the nation's top cold case duo attempts to catch her killer. They develop a technique that would change investigative procedure forever hoping to secure justice for a mother gone too soon.

Family Under Fire

Armed with homemade bombs, a group of masked gunmen ambush a family in the middle of the night, and murder a teenage daughter and her mom. The family's tragedy is worsened when they believe that one of their own loved ones was behind the double homicide. It would take 30 years and an eager state trooper to bring the killer to justice.

The Hundred Mile Murder

The innocence of the quiet, rural town of Miles City, Montana is shattered when a doting father of two and loving husband, Marty Etchemendy, disappears after a local football game. The Sheriff and local volunteers scour the dusty countryside for any sign of the missing father. The trail leads detectives out of Montana on a life-and-death chase spanning over 150 miles. Investigators hold on hard to hope, but will the intense manhunt for a hostage turn into a search and recovery?

Dead Wrong

Horse grooms at a racetrack find one of their own dead in her dorm. Her death is ruled a suicide, but her family suspect foul play. Three years later, the original investigator gets a tip about an eerily similar death 1400 miles away. Can this suicide be turned into a homicide case? A detective who won't give up hope, tries to connect the two and bring closure to the families of these victims.

Justice Under Attack

A young father is gunned down right outside his mother's home, and the murder is captured on security cameras. Investigators analyze surveillance video and hours of recorded calls to uncover a murder plot that threatens the entire justice system. But before the case goes to trial, prosecutors get word that the savvy killer ordered a hit against them. Now, they too, are caught in the crosshairs of danger.

Heinous, Atrocious, Cruel

Diana Duve had it all: great friends, supportive family, a fulfilling career, and a charismatic, successful boyfriend. But when she mysteriously goes missing, the resulting investigation unearths a past riddled with vitriol and violence. They discover a wake of victims and a heinous escalation of abuse. The prosecution knows they need to expose this wolf in sheep's clothing before he can kill again.
